If you've been on the net hoping to find the best online dating experience (or the "Anastasia Experience"), you are aware that finding a legitimate dating site these days can be a bit risky. Reason being – many of the Russian online dating sites tend to be scams. Or even if the whole site isn't a scam, itself, then a lot of the profiles may be. The Russian girls and Ukraine girls that you can find on the webpage might or might not really exist. How can you tell? Well, just check out our tips below and see how you can know if you're exploring a genuine Russian dating site, or just becoming a part of a scam.

Tip #1: There Shouldn't Be Too Much Money Involved

As you register with a site seeking those wonderful Russian women, you should have to pay little or no money. Websites who charge you more than a very minimal fee are often scamming you out of your hard earned money. On sites like these, it is more likely that the ladies you find are going to be fake user profiles. Sites which charge minimal fees, however, should not be mistaken for those that charge outrageous fees. Minimal fees will be put towards keeping the dating site up to date to ensure that good men like you can meet real ladies.

Tip #2: Check Out the Profiles

Before signing up to the online dating, you should get to take a quick look at few of the profiles. Normally, it is only when you wish to get in touch with Russian singles that you have to subscribe and pay money for services. When the profiles seem fake, odds are high that they are. Believe in your instincts. If all of the Russian women are drop dead gorgeous and look as though they could be models, a red light should go on that says the site isn't quite right. When the profiles have a nice mixture of Russian and Ukrainian girls who differ in likes, looks, interests, etc., that is the way that things are in the real world, and that's a sign that you're browsing a genuine dating site.

Tip #3: Check Out Reviews

When you find a site for international dating that you prefer, you should check out reviews for the site. Not just on the site, but do a simple search on Google and find out what other men on the internet say. If the testimonials are all generally positive, you should feel free to go forward and use it. If the assessments are telling you that the site looks like a scam, then that should be your sign that you have to find a better site for Russian dating.

Tip #4: Trust Your Instincts

Overall, the most important thing for you to do when trying to find a real site for online dating is to have confidence in intuition. Should you believe that a site is a scam or a user profile is phony, then rely on instinct. If you feel that a site is real and shall be a good place for you to meet Russian singles, then you should do it.

Those are four quick strategies to know if a Russian dating site is real or not. Keep in mind these four items and you will definitely find the Anastasia Experience you are looking for. Good luck in finding single Russian or Ukrainian women who are suitable for you! Hopefully you will find your match soon!
